

CONTENTS

1. How Sabbhi Sutta arose 2

Seven benefits of association with the wise and virtuous

Seeking refuge on facing the danger of death

2. The report of the first deva 6

Noble and not Ignoble

(1) The wise and the virtuous persons

(2) Knowing the noble dhamma of the wise and the virtuous

Five benefits of sīla

(3) Two ways of association with the wise and the virtuous

Noble and not Ignoble

Characteristics of an ignoble person

Characteristics of the wise and virtuous

Five characteristics of a good speech

Buddha's advice on judging people

With whom one should or should not associate

Association with the wise is noble

The golden deer slipped away from whose side, From the side of the King

Pupphaka's explanation

Abiding the rules of the hermitage

Differences shown by association

Explanation by giving more examples

3. The report of the second deva 30

Gaining wisdom (ñāṇa paññā)

Paññā gained from the wise

The unreal fool

Characteristics of the wise

The real fools

Examples of gaining or not gaining wisdom

Alternate method of noting the fool and the wise

Performances producing unbeneficial result

4. The report of the third deva 44

Being free of sorrow

Adages of old

Worries due to living with fools

Worried due to associating with fools

Free from sorrow by associating with the wise

Kicked out of home but had to return

The far-sighted Buddha

Assassination of husband and sons

Mallika was free of sorrow

The wise and the fool

Looking only to blame

Angry on being corrected

Harbouring grudge on being corrected

Finding him to be a fool

The unforgettable Ashin Sariputta

5. The report of the fourth deva 58

Popular among relatives

An alternate way of differentiating the wise from the fool

Checking to see who has morality and who has not

The honest student marries the daughter

To acquire wisdom for progressing

To speak up when opportunity arises

6. The report of the fifth deva 66

On landing at sugati bhumi

Characteristics of a fool to be known

Associating with the wise, one shall land at a pleasant realm.

Proficiency in admonishing can send one

up to a deva world

Due to a wise son, one can get to a deva world

7. The report of the sixth deva 79

Luxurious wealth

Losing by associating with the fools

An alternate way of differentiating between the fool and the wise

The utterance of the Buddha

Not just half, but completely sure

8. Good Characteristics in Myanmar Country 88

Taking the ways of greeting as examples.

On the pleasantness of vipassanā meditation

9. Vipassanā Meditation 91

(a) The object of vipassanā meditation

For a beginner of vipassanā meditation, the object to note are rūpa and nāma dhamma in his khandhā.

(b) The benefit of vipassanā meditation

The benefit of overcoming sorrow (soka)

and lamentation (paridevā)

The Story of Patācārā

The benefit of overcoming the physical suffering

The story of a monk eaten by a tiger

The benefit of overcoming the ailments (rogā)

Daw Nu Nu Shwe, Daw Ma Ma Lay and

Daw Tin May, the story of their illness

being cured

(c) The time to practise vipassanā meditation

Three kinds of present moment (paccuppana)

(d) The method of Vipassanā meditation

Kāyānupassanā, vedānānupassanā, cittānupassanā and dhammānupassanā

satipatthanas

(i) Sitting meditation

On being appropriate to note rising and falling

Four benefits of noting rising and falling

Increasing the noting

(ii) Walking meditation

One noting in one step. Two notings in one step. Three notings in one step.

Six notings in one step.

The three ways of making six notings

in one step

(iii) Meditation on general activities

Close successive notings are conducive to quick progress in dhamma

10. Arising of vipassanā ñāṇas 134

1. Nāmarūpa pariccheda ñāṇa

2. Paccaya pariggaha ñāṇa

3. Sammasana ñāṇa

4. Udayabbaya ñāṇa

5. Bhaṅga ñāṇa

Spreading the notings (Noting at different places)

6. Bhaya ñāṇa

7. Ādinava ñāṇa

8. Nibbidā ñāṇa

9. Muñcitu-kamyatā ñāṇa

10. Paṭisaṅkhā ñāṇa

11. Sankhārupekkhā ñāṇa

12. Anuloma ñāṇa

13. Gotrabhū ñāṇa

14. Sotāpatti magga ñāṇa

15. Sotāpatti phala ñāṇa

16. Paccavekkhaṇā ñāṇa

The reports of the yogis

11. The wish of the author, 150

Saddhammaranisī Yeiktha Sayadaw