

Preface

This is the first publishing in the complete book form that I have written in my life. Under many different titles, the nicest choices but not all, written in this book, Signal of Life, was actually appeared, as part of my autobiography as well as my young childhood residing in the small town, a southern part of Kayin State. With the intention of my good-will and true sincerity for both local and around the globe to have known my native town, located on the east bank of Zami River which is originated initially in Thailand, flowing south to north direction, the one and only river in Myanmar, I, therefore, the author of this book, provedly put forward to my dearest readers.

Although my weakness and weak point in English, as I am in the state of an old age nearly 70, the readers may understand and conceive upon me for my some difficulties. My true and genuine aim is to hand down my invaluable experiences run across to me, to the next generation in which taking out the best and repelling the worst. To make known all the readers, I am going to continuously write another two books with different titles in each book as my complete biographic episodes until today. As far as I am aware of, the juvenile readers need the best heritages of elderly educated and intellectual persons' passed experiences and knowledges to be practiced in the long run, otherwise, there may be peaceful and tranquil in both bodily and mentally and changing in the mindsets of today's generation.

In short, I am very happy and applausable putting forward to my dearest readers from local and all over the world for my first and foremost autobiographic episode in complete book form with utmost efforts.
